3 Voter ID

This item was presented by the Democratic and Electoral Services Manager.

- The Elections Act 2022 had brought about some key changes with the biggest of those being the introduction of Voter ID as well as changes in other areas such as EU voters and those overseas. However, the focus of the presentation was on that of Voter ID.
- The purpose of Voter ID was to reduce the risk of voter fraud as well as make the electoral process fairer. The Voter ID will also prevent the electoral offence known as personation but there has been some criticism in relation to voter ID making it harder for some to vote.
- From 4th May 2023 the rules will apply to parliamentary elections as well as Police and Crime Commission elections.
- In England it will also apply to local elections and referendums
- From the 5th of October 2023 Voter ID will also apply to General Elections
- There are 23 accepted forms of accepted ID include Passports and driving licenses, these can be expired if there is a likeness.
- If a person does not have a valid ID, they are still able to apply for Voter ID.
- Voter ID will be provided free from the Electoral Register Office and through research it was expected around 5% of voters will need Voter ID.

- In Wales Voter ID was not being publicised yet but in England it has been publicised due to it taking effect on Elections within England first.
- The Application can either be done online or be supported in person.
- A centralised fulfilment centre currently exists however this could move to a more local scale in the future.
- The physical Voter ID will be an A4 document and will have some security measures such as those used within legal currency
- The Electoral Commission will publicise the need for the Voter ID before the voting is scheduled to take place as well as providing materials to local councils in order for them to distribute to residents
- Polling stations must have a space in order for people to show their Voter ID in private, funding for any materials needed for this space will be provided
- The Presiding Officer within the polling station has the right to refuse a voter if they don't have valid ID, or if they feel the ID provided is not legitimate. The decision to refuse is final, however these refusals can be subject to a review.
- There will be challenges such as raising awareness in order for the residents to have adequate time to get their Voter ID
- The Electoral Commission is focused on making sure no communities are disenfranchised
- Funding will be available in April 2023 and April 2024.
