

Guide to the Constitution of Newport City Council

Produced pursuant to section 37 of the Local Government Act 2000

Introduction

The Constitution

The Council is made up of different individuals and bodies, who work together to deliver the Council's functions. Section 37 of the Local Government Act 2000 requires the Council to prepare and publish its written Constitution, which describes the different people and bodies that make up the Council, their functions, and the procedure rules that govern how those bodies work together to deliver services.

It is intended to: -

- enable the Council to make decisions efficiently and effectively;
- support you to participate in decisions that affect you;
- help Councillors to represent their constituents more effectively; and
- enable you to hold the Council to account.

One of the main aims of the Constitution is to set out clearly what you can expect from the Council, and what you can do if your expectations are not met.

Part 1 The Constitution

The Constitution governs the way in which the Council, Councillors and officers working at the Council work together to deliver the Council's functions. It ensures that everyone at the Council acts lawfully, fairly and appropriately and that the Council's functions are performed properly and effectively.

Part 2 Article 1.3 of the Constitution explains the purpose of the Constitution.

You can obtain a copy of the Constitution from the Council's offices and view it on the Council's website. A copy of the constitution must also be provided to each Councillor when they are elected to the Council.

You can access the Council's constitution on the Council's website Newport City Council.

Part 2 Article 16 of the constitution explains where, when and how the constitution must be published.

The Head of Law & Standards, as the Council's Monitoring Officer, is responsible for maintaining and reviewing the Constitution. The Monitoring Officer is also responsible for deciding how the constitution should be understood and applied. You can read more about the Monitoring Officer's role in Part 4 of this guide.

The Full Council is responsible for agreeing the Constitution. Once the Constitution has been agreed, it can only be changed by the Full Council. Usually, changes to the constitution are recommended to the Full Council by the Monitoring Officer.

In some circumstances, the Monitoring Officer may make changes to the Constitution. For example, where there is a change in the law that affects the Constitution, or where a minor change is needed to clarify a provision in the Constitution that is unclear.

Part 2 Article 15 of the Constitution explains how the Constitution is agreed and how it can be changed.

The Constitution also governs how meetings of the Council and its committees should be conducted. The person chairing a meeting will be responsible for ensuring that the constitution is followed during that meeting.

Part 2 The Council's democratic structures

The Council is made up of Councillors who are elected every five years to represent people living in different parts of the Council's area (referred to in the constitution as 'electoral wards').

Councillors are responsible for everyone living in the Council's area, but they have a specific duty to people living in their ward.

Part 1 of the Constitution provides an overview of how individual Councillors work together as the Council.

All Councillors meet together regularly as the Full Council. The Full Council is responsible for setting the Council's budget, policy priorities and overall policy framework.

In May, at the start of every municipal year, the Full Council will elect one Councillor as its Presiding Member. The Presiding Member is responsible for chairing meetings of the Full Council and ensuring that decisions are taken properly and in accordance with the rules. The Full Council will also elect a Mayor, based on seniority, who is responsible for carrying out certain ceremonial and civic functions.

You can read more about these roles in Part 3 of this Guide.

The Council appoints or elects a Leader (who may be the leader of the largest political group or coalition of political groups). Individual councillors will also be appointed to the Cabinet by the Leader. The Leader will generally appoint councillors from their own political group as Cabinet Members, although they may appoint councillors from any political group to the Cabinet. Cabinet Members are responsible for specific policy areas, commonly referred to as portfolios. Where responsibility for a particular work area or function is given to a Cabinet Member, it is described in the Constitution as being delegated to that person.

The Cabinet meets regularly to take collective decisions on those aspects of the Council's work which the Cabinet is responsible for.

Some of the Council's functions are carried out by Committees. Committees are small groups of Councillors that meet together to carry out certain of the Council's regulatory and scrutiny functions. Subject to some exceptions, Committees comprise councillors from each political group in the same proportion as they are represented on the Full Council.

Until recently, all council meetings (whether of the Full Council, the Cabinet or a Committee or sub-committee) had to take place in person and only those councillors who were physically present at the meeting could participate in discussions and vote. Councils are now able to meet using video conferencing software. Meetings may either be “remote” (where all councillors are in different places) or “hybrid” (where some people are present in one place, and others are in different places). Even if all the people who are participating in a meeting choose to be physically present, the Council must ensure that there is the option to join the meeting remotely.

The Full Council may engage such paid staff (referred to as officers) as it considers necessary. The Cabinet and Full Council may delegate functions to officers. Further information on delegations can be found in the officers’ scheme of delegation 3.3 Scheme of Delegation to Officers.pdf \(newport.gov.uk\)

You can read more about these structures in the following sections of this Part of the guide.

Structure chart

Councillors

Councillors are elected by the people living in a particular ward to represent them on the Council. However, Councillors are also accountable to the wider community and must act in the best interests of everyone living in the Council's area.

If you want to raise an issue with the Council and are not sure who to contact, you may wish to contact your Councillor to ask for help.

You can find out who your local Councillor is and their contact details on the Council's website Newport City Council - Councillors

All Councillors are members of the Full Council, and they may also be members of one or more of the Council's bodies (such as the Cabinet or a committee). Where Councillors act as a member of a particular Council body, they are referred to in the constitution as 'Members'.

This is explained more fully in the list of definitions in the Introduction in Part 1 of the Constitution.

Councillors have certain rights that are set out in the Constitution, which enable them to raise issues and make representations on your behalf.

For example, Councillors may: -

- see any information which they need in order to fulfil their role as a member of the Council;
- attend and vote at any meeting of the Council;
- speak and vote at any meeting of any Council body which they are a member of;
- with the permission of the Chair, and where permitted by the Council's rules and procedures, speak at any meeting of a Council body (even if they are not a member of that body);
- talk to the Leader, Cabinet Members or Council officers about any aspect of Council business; and
- raise complaints.

Councillors' rights to information are set out in Part 4.1 of the Constitution.

Councillors' rights to participate in Council proceedings are set out Part 2 of the Constitution.

Councillors may also raise questions at meetings of the Full Council and the Council's committees and sub-committees, submit motions to the Full Council and call-in decisions.

The rules surrounding how these rights are exercised are set out in Part 4 of the Constitution.

You can read more about the role of elected Councillors and the qualities that make a good Councillor in the role descriptions (in Part 2, Article 2.2.1 of the Constitution).

Full Council

Part 2 Article 4 and the Council Standing Orders set out in Part 4.5 of the Constitution governs the Full Council.

What does the Full Council do?

The law requires that certain important decisions are taken by all Councillors meeting together as the Full Council. These are referred to in the Constitution as functions of the Full Council. The Council may decide that other non-executive functions should be carried out by the Full Council too. These are referred to in the constitution as local choice functions because the Council has a choice about which person or body should carry them out.

Part 3 of the Constitution explains the different types of functions that are carried out by the Council and which part of the Council is responsible for carrying them out.

The Full Council is responsible for, amongst other things: -

- agreeing the Constitution, and any changes to the Constitution;
- setting the Council's budget;
- agreeing the Council's Corporate Plan (which explains how the Council will deliver its well-being objectives and improve the economic, social, environmental, and cultural wellbeing of the citizens of Newport);
- agreeing key plans and strategies (referred to in the constitution as the 'policy framework');
- reviewing and reporting on the Council's performance;
- electing the Leader, the Presiding Member and the Mayor; and
- appointing the Chief Executive and other Chief Officers.

All of the functions of the Full Council are listed in Part 3 Appendix 1 of the Constitution.

Meetings of the Full Council are chaired by the Presiding Member. They are responsible for ensuring that meetings are conducted in accordance with the constitution and that decisions are made properly, fairly and lawfully.

You can read more about the role of the Presiding Member in Part 3 of this Guide.

What happens at meetings of the Full Council?

The Full Council will hold its Annual General Meeting in May each year to elect Councillors to particular positions on the Council, to appoint Councillors to outside bodies and to establish committees and working groups to carry out the Council's business during the year.

 The timing of the Annual General Meeting and the issues to be decided at that meeting are described in the Council Standing Orders set out in Part 4 Appendix 1 of the Constitution.

At the Annual General Meeting, the Council will also decide how often all Councillors should meet together as the Full Council. These regular meetings of the Full Council are known as ordinary meetings.

 Ordinary meetings are carried out in accordance with the Council procedure rules in Part 4 Appendix 1 of the constitution.

In some circumstances, it may be necessary for the Full Council to meet before its next scheduled meeting to discuss an issue that is particularly urgent or important. This is known as an extraordinary meeting of the Council.

 The process by which an extraordinary meeting may be called and the issues that may be discussed there are set out in Part 4 Appendix 1.3 of the constitution.

The Full Council is responsible for deciding when and where meetings of the Full Council will be held. The Head of Law & Standards must notify Councillors of this by issuing them with a summons.

The Head of Law & Standards is also responsible for ensuring that the public are told about meetings of the Full Council, by publishing a notice in advance of each meeting. The notice must include certain information such as the date and time of the meeting, where it will be held and how you can access the meeting remotely using video conferencing.

You can read more about participating in meetings of the Council in part 4 of this Guide.

 Part 4 Appendix 1 of the Constitution and the Council's published Arrangements for Multi-Location meetings govern meeting arrangements and notice requirements.

How does the Full Council make decisions?

Meetings of the Full Council are carried out in accordance with an agreed set of rules that are designed to ensure that debates are conducted fairly and efficiently, and that every Councillor has the ability to raise questions and to make comments on the public's behalf.

The rules of debate are set out in Part 4.5 of the Constitution.

Decisions are made by Councillors casting votes for or against a particular decision (referred to in the Constitution as a motion). Councillors may also propose amendments (changes) to a particular motion, which must then be voted on.

Historically, votes were conducted by a show of hands, with Councillors asked to raise their hand to indicate whether they were voting for or against a particular motion, or whether they wished to abstain (i.e. to vote neither for nor against the motion). This show of hands is still the way in which Councillors vote when they are physically present in meetings of Full Council. However, with hybrid meetings, Councillors who attend remotely are able to use electronic voting functions on video conferencing platforms to cast their votes.

Decisions will usually require a simple majority of Councillors present (in person or remotely) voting for a particular motion. In other words, more Councillors must vote for a motion than against it. Where a vote is tied once all Councillors have voted, the Presiding Member will have a second, casting vote.

Councillors may request a recorded vote on a particular issue. In a recorded vote, the Councillors voting for and against a particular motion, and those abstaining, will be written down and recorded in the minutes of the meeting. Councillors may also request that their individual vote on a particular motion is recorded in the minutes.

The Council's voting arrangements are set out in Part 4.5 of the Constitution.

Does every Councillor need to be present before a decision can be taken?

Not every Councillor needs to vote on every decision. In fact, in some circumstances it may not be appropriate for a Councillor to vote on a particular issue (for example, where they have a personal interest in a decision). You can read more about this in part three of this Guide.

However, in order for the Council to make a lawful decision, a minimum number of Councillors must be present at a meeting. The minimum number of Councillors that must be present at a meeting is referred to in the Constitution as the quorum for that meeting.

-  Part 4.5 (Standing Order 3) of the Constitution sets out the minimum number of Councillors that must be present so the Full Council can make a decision. The quorum for Full Council meetings is one-third of the total number of Councillors.

Are meetings recorded?

Meetings of the Full Council are broadcast live on the Council's website.

A record of each meeting will be kept in the form of minutes. The minutes will contain a record of the motions that were put to the meeting, and the decisions that were taken. They will also record who was present at the meeting.

The minutes of a meeting of the Full Council will be agreed by the next meeting of the Council and published on the Council's website in accordance with the Council's access to information procedure rules and statutory requirements.

The Council also publishes a record of the decisions taken at every meeting of the Full Council, the Cabinet and at committee and sub-committee meetings within seven days of the meeting taking place.

If you want to find out what the Council decided about an issue that affects you, you can read the minutes or the record of decisions for the meeting where that issue was discussed.

-  Information on the Council's broadcasting arrangements can be found in Part 4.5 of the Constitution and in the Council's Arrangements for Multi-Location meetings published on the Council's website 11i Arrangements for Multi-location meetings v1.pdf \(newport.gov.uk\) .

-  Information on minutes can be found in Part 4.5 of the Constitution.

-  The access to information procedure rules can be found in Part 4.1 of the constitution.

The Cabinet

The Cabinet is made up of the Leader and individual Cabinet Members appointed to the Cabinet by the Leader.

 Part 2 Article 7 of the Constitution explain the composition of the Cabinet and how Councillors are appointed to the Cabinet.

The role of Leader and any role on the Cabinet may be carried out by two or more Councillors on a job-share basis.

 Part 2.7 of the constitution explains the job-sharing arrangements for members of the Cabinet.

What does the Cabinet Executive do?

The Leader is responsible for carrying out the Council's executive functions. However, in practice the Leader cannot personally carry out every one of these functions, so the Leader delegates responsibility for certain functions to the Cabinet Members, to officers of the Council or to other bodies.

The Leader decides which executive functions to delegate to whom. This is known as the Council's scheme of delegation.

 The Council's scheme of delegation to Cabinet Members and officers can be found in Parts 3.2 and 3.3 of the Constitution.

Meetings of the Cabinet

The Cabinet meets every month in accordance with their agreed annual work programme. The dates and times of the meetings are agreed with the Leader. The Leader also chairs meetings of the Cabinet.

The Constitution prescribes certain matters that must be considered at every meeting of the Cabinet. Additionally, the Leader, Cabinet Members and Strategic Directors or Heads of Service may require that an item of business is added to the meeting agenda.

Meetings of the Cabinet are carried out in accordance with the rules of procedure and debate set down in the Constitution.

 The rules of procedure and debate of the Cabinet are set out in Part 4.5 Section 2 of the Constitution.

How does the Cabinet make decisions?

The Cabinet is obliged to consult with individual Councillors and with certain committees before it makes certain decision on matters that are not urgent.

The Cabinet is also required by law to consult with the public in advance of taking certain decisions. Even where legislation does not require public consultation, as a matter of good practice the Cabinet may also consult the public in advance of taking other significant decisions. Where the Cabinet undertakes public consultation, the Cabinet must have regard to the consultation responses received when taking their decision.

Decisions taken by individual Cabinet Members in accordance with their scheme of delegation are also subject to consultation with other Councillors and, where appropriate, the public. These delegated decisions require written reports, setting out the reasons for the proposed decision and any financial implications, and they are circulated to all Councillors for comment, prior to any decision being taken. Any consultation responses or comments from other Councillors are set out in the report, together with any replies from officers. Where Councillors have any objection to the proposed decision, they can request a personal meeting with the Cabinet Member to discuss their concerns, before any decision is taken. Copies of the reports (unless they contain confidential information) and the decisions taken by individual Cabinet Members are recorded published on the Council's website

These consultation requirements are explained in Part 4.1 of the Constitution.

The Cabinet must keep a record of every decision it makes, including every decision made by an individual Cabinet Member.

Part 4.1 of the Constitution sets down the requirements for the Cabinet's record of decisions.

You can read the minutes of meetings of the Cabinet and decisions taken by individual Cabinet Members on the Council's website Newport City Council - Meetings, agendas, and minutes

Why does the Council have committees and what do they do?

The law requires the Council to establish Committees for the purpose of carrying out certain legal functions of the Council.

The Council may also decide to establish other Committees and working groups for the purpose of assisting the Council to conduct its business efficiently and effectively.

What do the Council's Scrutiny Committees do?

Councillors are appointed to the Committee in accordance with the political balance rules (which ensure that the political make-up of the committee reflects the political make-up of the Council).

You can read more about the Standards Committee in Part 2 Article 9 and Part 3 Appendix 1 of the constitution.

The Council will appoint individual Councillors to the Planning Committee and agree terms of reference for, and the delegation of powers to, the Planning Committee to enable it to discharge those functions. Some smaller planning decisions are delegated by Council to officers under the officer scheme of delegation, although individual Councillors are consulted about the proposed officer decisions and can refer them to Planning Committee for determination, if there are valid planning reasons for doing so.

 You can read more about the Council's Planning Committee in Part 2 Article 8 and Part 3.1 of the constitution.

 You can also read more about the Council's planning functions on the Council's website Planning | Newport City Council .

Licensing Committee

The Council is responsible for deciding whether to grant licences for a wide range of different businesses, services and activities in its area. The Council's licensing functions are delegated to the Council's Licensing Committee. Some licensing decisions are also delegated by Council to officers under the officer scheme of delegation.

The Council will appoint individual Councillors to the Licensing Committee and agree terms of reference for, and the delegation of powers to, the Licensing Committee to enable it to discharge those functions.

The committee is also responsible for ensuring that the Council's decisions and finances are audited in accordance with agreed procedures. Lastly, the Governance and Audit Committee must review and comment upon the Council's own corporate self-assessment reports.

The Governance and Audit Committee comprises a mixture of Councillors and lay members (who are not members of the Council). Councillors are appointed to the Committee in accordance with the political balance rules (which ensure that the political make-up of the committee reflects the political make-up of the Council).

 Part 2 Article 8 of the constitution explains the Council's arrangements for the Democratic Services Committee.

 Article 3.1 of the constitution explains the functions of the Democratic Services Committee.

What are joint committees?

The Council may carry out some of its functions jointly with one or more other local authorities in Wales, and with other public bodies. The Council may decide to do this where, for example, the Council considers that it could better promote the economic, social or environmental wellbeing of people living in its area by coordinating its activities with other local authorities, bodies or people.

The Council can establish a joint committee with other local authorities, bodies or people and delegate decisions and functions to that joint committee. By allowing decisions to be taken by a joint committee, the Council can ensure that decisions can be coordinated between all authorities and bodies represented on the committee.

The Cabinet may also establish joint arrangements with one or more local authorities in Wales for the purpose of jointly exercising executive functions together with those authorities.

Part 2 Article 11 of the constitution governs the circumstances in which the Council or Cabinet may enter into joint arrangements with other authorities and bodies.

The Council and the Cabinet may also delegate or contract out particular functions to another local authority or to another body or organisation.

The South East Wales Corporate Joint Committee is responsible for the following functions: -

- transport;
- strategic planning; and
- economic development

The Council must work together with other members of the South East Wales Corporate Joint Committee when it performs these functions.

The South East Wales Corporate Joint Committee was established under regulations made by the Welsh Ministers. Consequently, many of the rules and standards that apply to the South East Wales Corporate Joint Committee are set down in regulations, rather than in the constitution.

 You can read the regulations that govern the South East Wales Corporate Joint Committee online [The South East Wales Corporate Joint Committee Regulations 2021 \(legislation.gov.uk\)

How should Councillors and Officers behave?

Councillors should comply with the Members' Code of Conduct

Councillors are expected to uphold the highest standards of personal and professional conduct. Those standards are described in the Code of Conduct for Members.

The Code of Conduct for Members is intended to help and guide Councillors in maintaining appropriate standards of conduct when serving their community. In turn, it provides reassurance to the public and helps build their trust in, and respect for, their local representatives.

The Code of Conduct for Members is based upon the 7 Principles of Public Life, which were first set out in the 1995 Nolan Report on Standards in Public Life. Three additional principles were added in the local government principles in Wales.

The Code of Conduct for Members is consistent with, and provides for the practical application of, these principles.

➤ Selflessness

Members must act solely in the public interest. They must never use their position as members to improperly confer an advantage on themselves or to improperly confer an advantage or disadvantage on others.

➤ Honesty

Members must declare any private interests relevant to their public duties and take steps to resolve any conflict in a way that protects the public interest.

➤ Integrity and propriety

Members must not put themselves in a position where their integrity is called into question by any financial or other obligation to individuals or organisations that might seek to influence them in the performance of their duties. Members must on all occasions avoid the appearance of such behaviour.

➤ Duty to uphold the law

Members must act to uphold the law and act on all occasions in accordance with the trust that the public has placed in them.

➤ Stewardship

In discharging their duties and responsibilities members must ensure that their authority's resources are used both lawfully and prudently.

➤ Objectivity in decision-making

In carrying out their responsibilities including making appointments, awarding contracts, or recommending individuals for rewards and benefits, members must make decisions on merit. Whilst members must have regard to the professional advice of officers and may properly take account of the views of others, including their political groups, it is their responsibility to decide what view to take and, if appropriate, how to vote on any issue.

➤ Equality and respect

Members must carry out their duties and responsibilities with due regard to the need to promote equality of opportunity for all people, regardless of their gender, race, disability, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, age or religion, and show respect and consideration for others.

➤ Openness

Members must be as open as possible about all their actions and those of their authority. They must seek to ensure that disclosure of information is restricted only in accordance with the law.

➤ Accountability

Members are accountable to the electorate and the public generally for their actions and for the way they carry out their responsibilities as a member. They must be prepared to submit themselves to such scrutiny as is appropriate to their responsibilities.

➤ Leadership

Members must promote and support these principles by leadership and example so as to promote public confidence in their role and in the authority. They must respect the impartiality and integrity of the authority's statutory officers and its other employees.

You can read the Code of Conduct for Members in full in Part 5.1 of the constitution.

Councillors are expected to ensure that they understand their obligations under the Code and act in a way which shows that they are committed to meeting the high standards of conduct that are expected of them. However, Councillors are provided with training when they are first appointed, and on a regular basis, to support them to comply with the Code of Conduct for Members.

Special requirements for Councillors who are members of the Council's planning committee

Planning affects people's private and financial interests in land and property and the environment in which communities live, work and play.

The Council's Planning Committee is responsible for balancing the needs and interests of individuals and the community to make decisions that are open, fair and transparent and decided using sound judgment and for justifiable reasons.

For these reasons, members of the Council's planning committee are expected to abide by an additional Planning Code of Practice.

The Planning Code of Practice explains, amongst other things: -

- the role of officers in providing impartial and professional advice to members of the committee;
- the factors that should be taken into account when deciding an application for planning permission and the factors that should not be taken into account;
- the legal duties which members of the committee must have regard to, such as the duty to have regard to the need to ensure that development contributes to the economic, social, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales and the duty to have regard to the impact of development on the extent to which the Welsh language is used in the Council's area
- the action members should take if they have a personal interest in a matter being determined by the committee (e.g. where an application relates to a property which they own); and
- how applications for development proposed by, or to be carried out by, the Council should be decided.

You can read the Planning Code of Practice on the Council's website Planning Code of Practice \(newport.gov.uk\) .

Officers should comply with the Officers' Code of Conduct

Paid officers of the Council are responsible for serving the Council by providing advice to Councillors, implementing the Council's policies, and delivering services to the local community. In performing their duties, they must act with integrity, honesty, impartiality and objectivity.

The public is entitled to expect the highest standards of conduct from all those who work for the Council. The Code of Conduct for Officers outlines the rules and conditions of service which apply to the Council's employees. It is designed to provide clear guidance to assist them in their day to day work and to allow the public to understand what they can expect when they interact with a Council employee.

You can read the Code of Conduct for Officers in full in Part 5.2 of the constitution.

Officers who support the Council's Planning Committee are also expected to abide by the Planning Code of Practice.

How should Councillors and Officers work together?

Councillors and Officers have different roles, responsibilities and accountabilities, but it is imperative that they work effectively together to perform the Council's functions and to deliver services to residents living in the Council's area.

The Protocol on Member and Officer Relations is designed to clarify the respective roles and responsibilities of Councillors and Officers and to guide them in their dealings with one another. It explains what Councillors and Officers can reasonably expect from one another and how they should work together to achieve their common purpose.

Councillors are entitled to express political views and to support the policies of the party or group to which they belong. Conversely, officers are expected to carry out the Council's business in a politically impartial way and many are restricted from engaging in political activity. The protocol therefore explains how officers can support the policy deliberations by political groupings, while remaining politically neutral.

You can read the Protocol on Member and Officer Relations in full in Part 5.3 of the constitution.

The plans and strategies which form the Council's policy framework are listed in Part 2 Article 4.1 of the constitution.

Individual plans and strategies are published on the Council's website Corporate plans and policies | Newport City Council.

How is the Council's policy framework decided?

The Cabinet is responsible for consulting with relevant stakeholders, considering any reports or recommendations made by the Council's Overview and Scrutiny Committee[s] and working with the Council's Chief Officers to develop a draft policy framework.

Once the Cabinet has developed a draft policy framework, it will be considered by a meeting of the Full Council. The Full Council may decide to adopt the policy framework, make changes to it, refer it back to the Cabinet so that further work can be done on it, or substitute its own policy framework for the draft prepared by the Cabinet.

If the Full Council decides to adopt the policy framework then it takes effect immediately.

Once adopted, the Cabinet, individual Cabinet Members and the Council's paid officers are bound to act in accordance with the policy framework.

The process by which the Full Council adopts a policy framework is described in Part 2 Article 4 of the constitution.

How does the Council set its budget?

The Full Council is responsible for agreeing the Council's budget, and for agreeing changes to the Council's budget once it has been formally adopted.

The Council's budget is in two parts: -

- the revenue budget provides for day to day operating costs and expenditure like staff salaries, rent, and the ongoing costs of providing services.
- the capital budget provides for one-off costs, such as building a new school or a major regeneration scheme.

The Cabinet, in consultation with the Chief Finance Officer, is responsible for developing initial proposals for the Council's budget and consulting over these.

Once this consultation has been completed, the Cabinet is responsible for preparing a final budget proposal for consideration by the Full Council, including setting the Council Tax rate.

The Full Council may adopt the budget and the proposed Council Tax rate without making any changes, amend the budget, or ask the Cabinet to reconsider it before adopting it.

The process by which the Full Council adopts its budget is described in Part 4.2 of the constitution.

Decisions outside the budget or policy framework

Can decisions be taken that do not comply with the budget or policy framework?

For example, where an urgent decision must be taken to safeguard the Council's interests and it is not possible to arrange a meeting of the Full Council in time.

However, the reasons for the urgency need to be reported to Governance & Audit Committee and a full explanation for the urgent decision needs to be presented to the next Full Council meeting.

 The mechanism by which the Cabinet and Chief Officers may move money between budget heads is set out in Part 4.2 of the constitution.

The Council can enter into contracts to purchase goods and services in much the same way as any other person or organisation. However, the Council must comply with the contract procedure rules in the constitution when it does so.

The purpose of the contract procedure rules is to ensure that the Council complies with relevant legal requirements and secures the most economically advantageous (best value) goods and services for taxpayers.

If you regularly sell goods or services to the Council then you may wish to familiarise with these rules and procedures.

 The Council's contract procedure rules are set out in Part 4.7 of the constitution.
